DANGER

KEEP FOR FUTURE REFERENCE

DEATH or SERIOUS INJURY can occur:

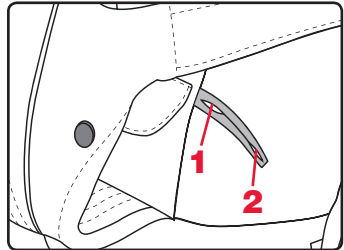

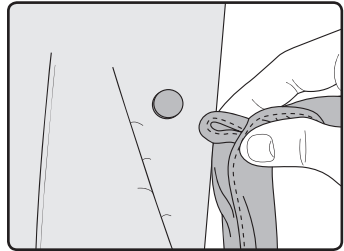

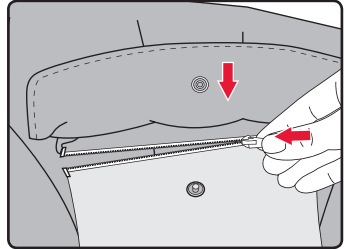

- Carefully read and follow all instructions before using the baby carrier.
- Your balance may be adversely affected by your movement and that of your child.
- Be careful when bending forward or leaning.
- This carrier is not suitable for use in sporting activities.
- Continually check the baby carrier while in use to ensure that the baby is secure.
- Only use this baby carrier for children weighing between 3.5 and 14.5 kg.
- Small children can fall through the leg openings. Adjust the leg openings to the smallest possible size for your child.
- This baby carrier is not designed to secure your child in the car. DO NOT use this baby carrier instead of a child safety seat.
- For babies weighing between 3.5 and 5 kg the leg loops must be used. See next page for leg loop instructions.
- Never release the child until the baby carrier is completely attached and secured.
- Ensure child is properly positioned with legs straddling the pouch and both arms extended through the armholes.
- Ensure all connectors and buckles are securely fastened while in use.
- Pull all straps snugly around your body.
- Ensure sufficient room around child's face to provide a clear source of air.
- DO NOT carry the baby carrier on your back.
- DO NOT over tighten the baby carrier. Over tightening can restrict baby's breathing.
- Babies should be placed inward facing until they have head and neck control.
- Inspect the baby carrier regularly for any wear and tear. Check to ensure all buckles, straps, snaps and adjustments are working before each use.
- DO NOT lie down with a child in the baby carrier.

Infant Insert

BRITAX RÖMER recommends use of the infant insert for baby's weighing between 3.5-6 kg so that your child does not sit too low in the baby carrier. Sitting too low in the baby carrier may restrict baby's breathing, especially with infants less than 6 kg.

- 1 Connect both zippers by lining up the zipper pulls and sliding the zippers closed.
- 2 Snap the zipper covers down on each side.
- 3 Hook the two loops on the insert over the leg loop buttons on the front of the carrier.

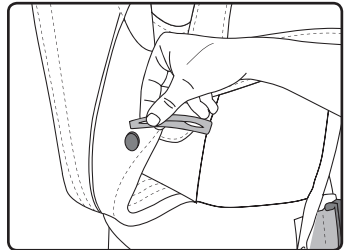

Discontinue use once baby weighs over 6 kg or when baby's ears reach the top of the baby carrier.

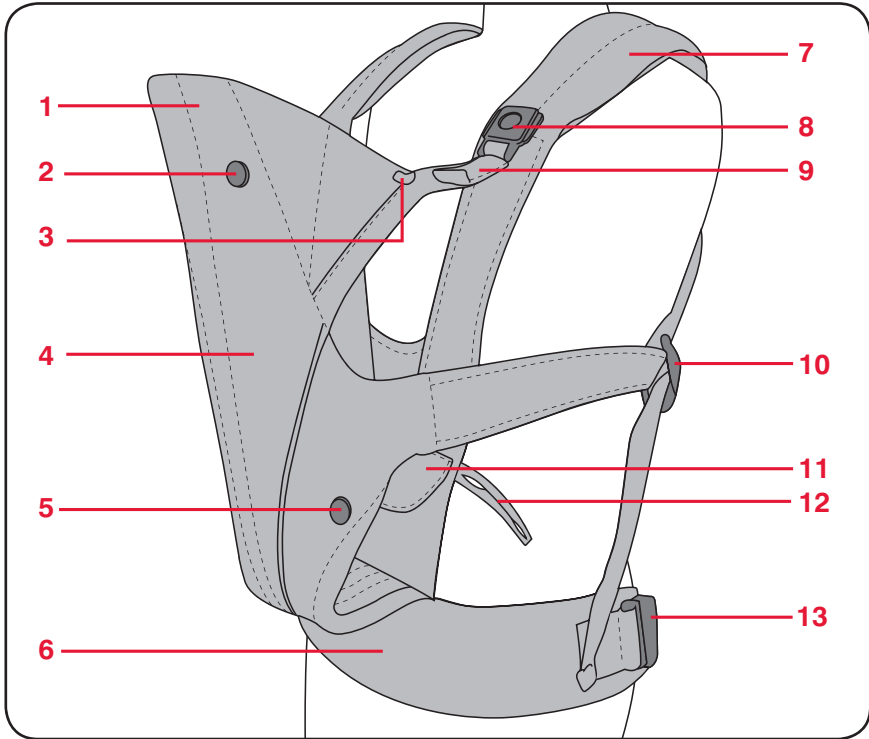

Leg Loops

Leg loops MUST be used for children weighing between 3.5-5 kg.

- 1 Choose either position 1 or 2 to achieve the best fit for your child.
- 2 Slide the leg loops on both sides of the baby carrier over the leg loop buttons at the desired position.

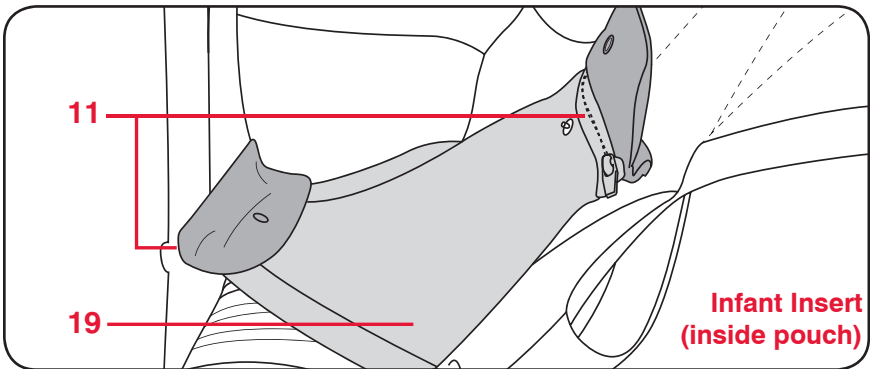

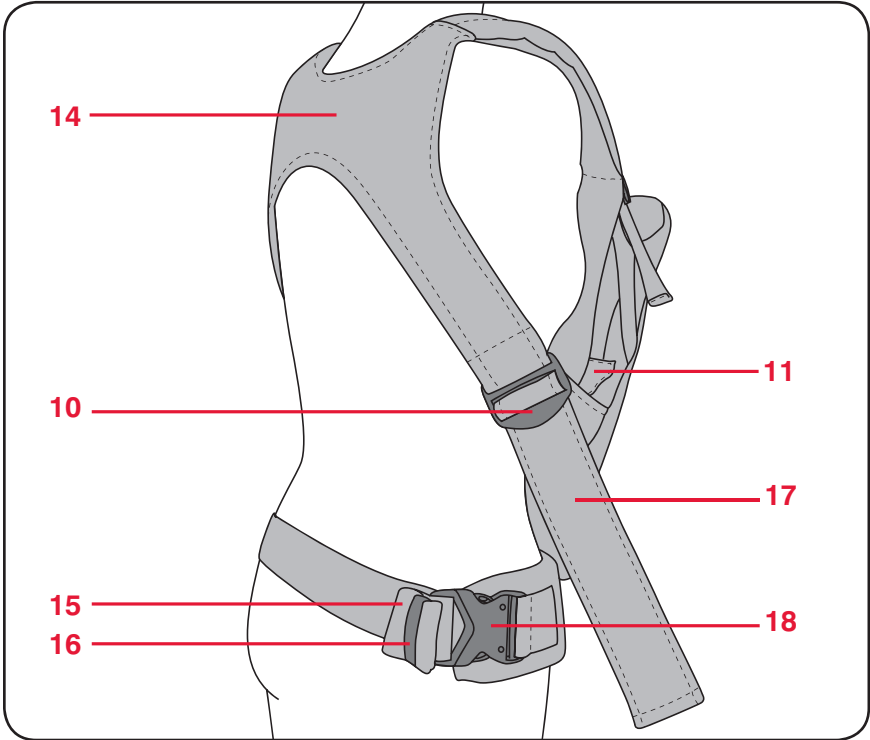

Baby Carrier Features

Wearing the Baby Carrier

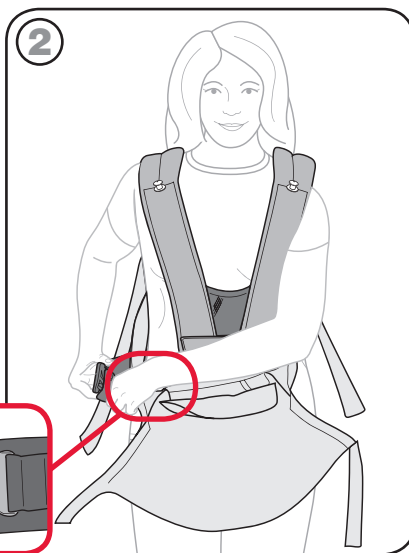

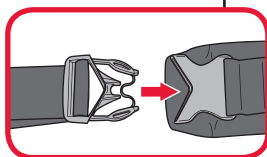

i Loosen all of the harness straps to make the baby carrier easier to put on.

- 1 Place the shoulder harness over your head. Position the upper connector posts in the front of your body.

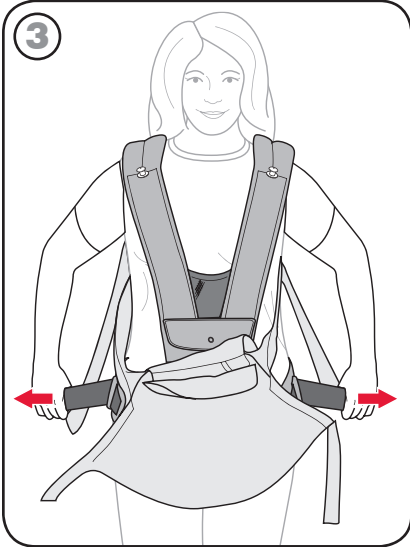

i Lift tabs on shoulder harness adjuster to loosen straps.

- 2 Attach the belt by wrapping it around your waist and lining up the buckle. Press the buckle together until it locks into place.

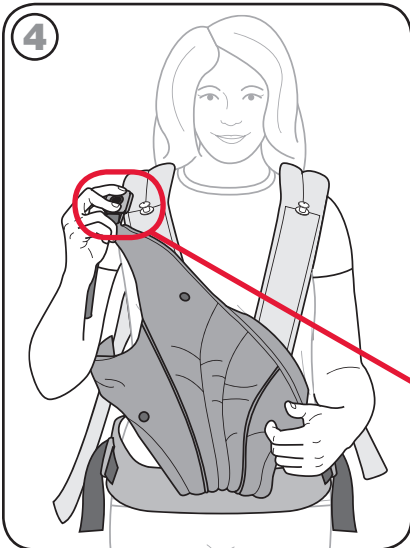

Wearing the Baby Carrier

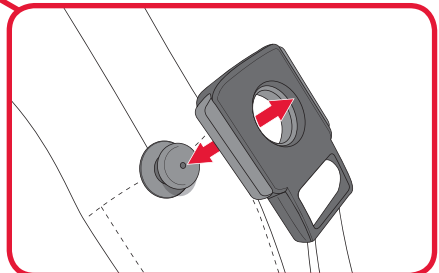

3 Tighten the belt snugly.

Use the excess webbing holder to contain extra webbing.

4 Ensure that the upper connector straps are not twisted and connect one upper connector.

*For inward facing, see page 8.
For outward facing, see page 10.*

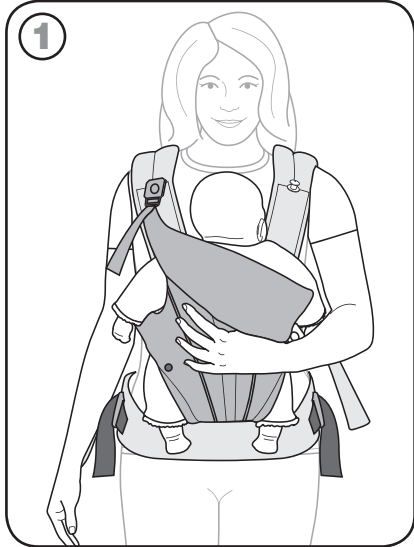

Securing Your Baby - Inward Facing

Children without head or neck control should always be placed inward facing.

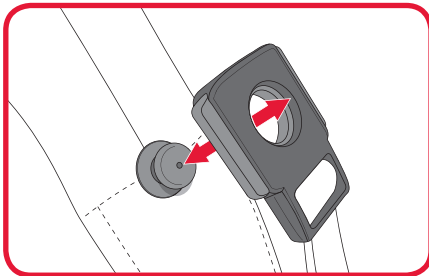

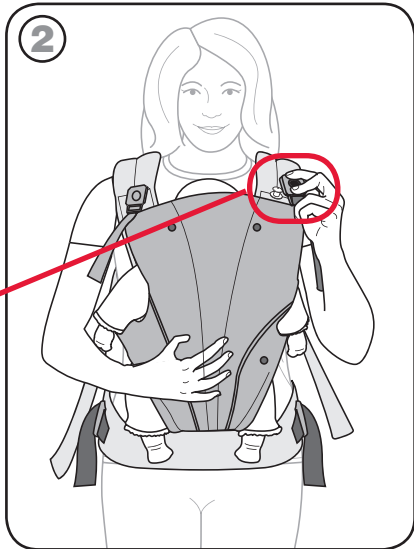

- 1 Place the baby into the pouch so that the legs are straddling the bottom of the pouch.

! Ensure that the baby's arms and legs are not caught inside the baby carrier. Always support your baby with one hand when placing baby in or removing baby from carrier pouch.

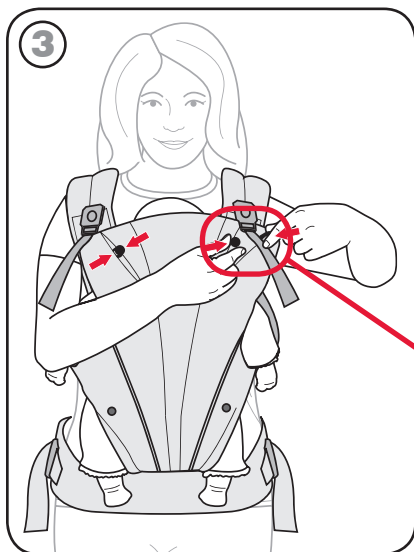

i Infant insert may be required to achieve a correct fit with small children. See page 3.

- 2 Ensure that the connector straps are not twisted and attach the second connector.

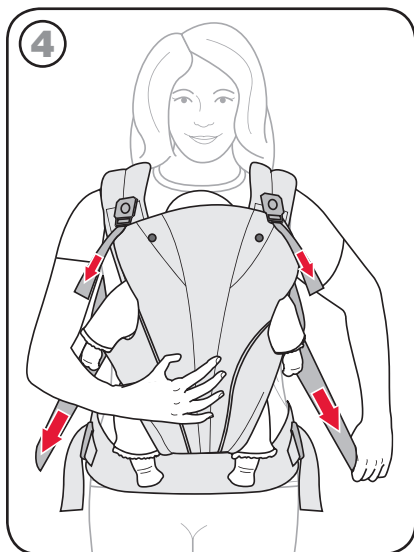

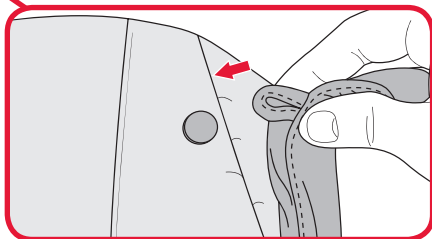

Securing Your Baby - Inward Facing

- 3 Button the head loops to support the baby's head by securing the loop over the button at the top of the carrier.

! The head loop connectors are only necessary if the baby does not have head or neck control.

⚠ For infants 3.5 - 5 kg, the leg loops must be used. See page 3.

- 4 Tighten all of the baby carrier straps until the baby carrier is snug around you.

! Attach the leg loops at this point if needed. See page 3.

⚠ Ensure that the baby's arms are under the upper connector adjuster straps to provide the optimal security for your baby.

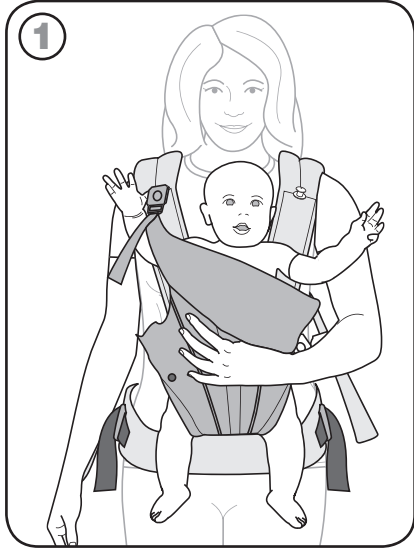

! Adjust baby carrier until optimal fit and comfort are achieved. Do not overtighten the baby carrier. Over tightening can restrict baby's breathing which can lead to suffocation.

Securing Your Baby - Outward Facing

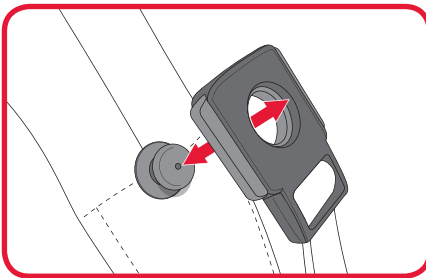

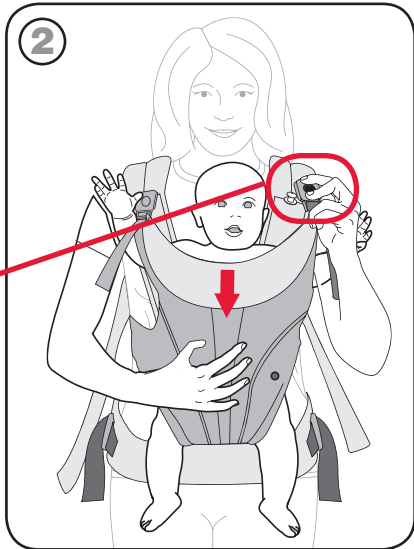

Children without head or neck control should always be placed inward facing.

- 1 Place baby into the pouch so that the legs are straddling the bottom of the pouch.

! Ensure that the baby's arms and legs are not caught inside the baby carrier. Always support your baby with one hand when placing baby in or removing baby from carrier pouch.

- 2 Fold the head support down and attach the second connector strap. Ensure that the straps are not twisted.

Securing Your Baby - Outward Facing

3 Tighten all of the baby carrier straps until the baby carrier is snug around your body.

! Ensure that the baby's arms are under the upper connector adjuster straps to provide the optimal security for your baby.

! Adjust baby carrier until optimal fit and comfort are achieved. Do not overtighten the baby carrier. Over tightening can restrict baby's breathing which can lead to suffocation.
